- Aesthetic value
- Curious growth habit

These 2 mature Lemon Scented Gums have grown together, with their structure and canopies having adapted to each other's presence to act as a single canopy. They are both healthy trees, located at the front of the property with a high degree of visual presence from the public realm. These trees make a major contribution to the local landscape as key components of the neighbourhood character and providing amenity to the wider community.

The twin nature of these trees acting as one has given them a distinct and curious growth habit.
