CITY COUNCIL

Diwali Festival of Lights celebrations,

Mayor's message

I'm delighted to present our Arts Guide for the first half of 2025.

Our wide range of arts and cultural events offer unique experiences for the community to come together to relax, learn and be entertained.

Visit Glen Eira Town Hall and take a walk around our Galleries to check out exhibitions such as a showcase of works by young artists at the International Baccalaureate Visual Arts Exhibition or listen to live music amongst the art at a monthly Live Sunday Session.

There's plenty to do outdoors. Grab your friends and family for the annual free concert at Packer Park, Under the Stars or indulge in local food, drinks and music at Groove and Graze.

Finally, learn how to create your own watercolour artwork, listen to Rachael Grace's outstanding The Australian Barbra Streisand Show or take a tour of Glen Eira Town Hall to learn all about the history of this wonderful building.

There really is something for everyone to be inspired, entertained and enlightened.

I hope you feel excited to dive into creativity — the inspiration for our cover artwork.

My fellow Councillors and I hope to see you in the Gallery or at one of our events this year.

Cr Simone Zmood

From Inspiration to Creation

Presented by the Glen Eira Cheltenham Art Group

Glen Eira City Council Gallery

Glen Eira Cheltenham Art Group's annual exhibition presents recent artworks by its adult and children's members, along with ceramics by guest artists from the Moorleigh Ceramic Co-op. Showcasing both contemporary and traditional styles, the artists all share a common feeling: the motivation to create.

Whatever the initial inspiration, whether it is taken from the imagination, a piece of writing, an experience, seeing the play of light on an object, or an arresting view, the artist uses their experience or tries new methods to arrive at the finished piece. When complete, each creation takes on a life of its own, as it evokes an emotion in the viewer. Immerse yourself in this display of fine art and vote in the People's Choice Award.

Tyranny of Distance

Meyrick Kaminski

Glen Eira City Council Gallery — Gallery Two

In Tyranny of Distance, Meyrick Kaminski explores the complicated relationship between media, memory and objects. Kaminski's work begins with the collection of artefacts — objects which are seen to be imbued with memory or a sense of place — and examines them with the help of the video camera.

Works in the exhibition question whether an open mind is possible at all when encountering a new place, attempt to recapture lost time and examine the soul of an object. What these works have in common is a spirit of inquiry across time and distance that eventually breaks down the role of the camera itself.

This painting includes traditional symbols to share my story. I have incorporated symbols representing waterholes, emu, kangaroo, a woman with a digging stick, a gum tree, clay huts and a Kurrung Larr (gathering circle). The woman with her digging stick collecting tucker for the tribe. The colours resemble the beautiful desert sun, the colour shifting just like a sunset on Country. I also included walking tracks and paths as Mob would travel for kilometres to get to waterholes and other landmarks. We know the land like the back of our hand and would travel and never get lost. In other words, this resembles my personal journey, as no matter where life takes me, I always seem to find my way back home.
